Three islands, two of which run parallel to each other and are separated by water. Most of them are uninhabited. But two of them are inhabited. On a small island there is a small not completely destroyed fortress, surrounded by peasant houses. And it has the post Harbor of Kos. This is the place where sea routes intertwine from Alicante and the Balearic Islands, as well as from the coast of France and the Iberian Peninsula. The exterior of the island is very picturesque. It is surrounded by a ring of mountains, on the slopes of which olive trees and vineyards grow.

The island itself is of volcanic origin. There are three bays in the center of the island. Coming out of one bay into Maly, you enter another, and emerge into a third. There are two ports in the harbor, one of which is the port of private traders, and the second is a small trading port. But with its inhabitants, as I was told, one had to be very careful. They say that things were not always calm there. And if someone suddenly began to behave in a wrong way, then a small detachment without insignia was landed on the island, which inspired fear in the smugglers. In the north of the island there is a small mountain Fuerta, covered with forest. The beaches of the island are almost all pebbly. In addition, the island has several small bays and a couple of small islands. And you can get to the island by motorway.

Conversation with a prostitute on the street of Alicantere So far, there has been nothing about this island, but about Gibraltar, which is 24 nautical miles away from here, one could tell. The island, named after King Henry, is located 48 kilometers from Gibraltar. The island is known to be rich in iron, lead, copper and jade. There are two ports - Small and Large. Previously, the Small Port was closed to large ships. And in the Bolshoi there was a small pier for private yachts, to which coasters mostly stuck, which because of this looked like boys from a school for beggars. There is also a small pier in the port where yachts moor. Yachts, having a convenient place in the Small dock ditches, pass by the pier, and then go upstairs and put in the port of the Big. The bay of the Bolshoy port is called Prado. There is a port in Beatrice-Pontun called St. Louis. From the name of this port, it is clear that
